

Senator Natalie Murdock, NC General Assembly

As a native North Carolinian, UNC alum, and local elected official, Natalie has spent a lifetime learning about the strengths and challenges of North Carolina. She has committed her life to public service. Now, she is the NC State Senator for District 20, which encompasses Durham and Chatham County most recently serving as Deputy Communications Director for NC Attorney General Josh Stein.

She is the first woman of color under 40 to be elected to the NCGA and was elected in 2020 earning over 100 thousand votes. She is dedicated to pursuing a progressive agenda that will transform the lives of hardworking North Carolinians. She hit the ground running as a freshman senator, filing over 100 bills that range from supporting black maternal health, expanding healthcare access for ALL to providing greater access to the ballot.

Senator Murdock serves as the South Region Coordinator for NOBEL Woman and on the Executive Board for the North Carolina Legislative Black Caucus. Most recently she was awarded with the environmental activism award by the National Caucus of Environmental Legislators and the Susan B Anthony award from the NC ERA Alliance.
